Fascinated with our females

I was fascinated with your deluxe February issue and was very impressed with the female content. I'm totally convinced you made a promising move by obtaining the lovely Kitten Natividad and incorporating her into your lineup as a regular contributor.

Her exhibitionistic nature is truly delightful and she seems to prove time after time to be a real special lady and a genuine pleaser. I especially admire her incredible beauty and find her manner of exposing herself and her delicious vagina to be very exciting and arousing.

She takes a very personal approach as if each man she performs for is her intimate lover and thus reveals herself in a very exciting and theatrical approach.

Kitten is really adorable and a special experience to watch in live action sequences. Her "shaving job" is beautiful and gives a delicious unveiling of her lips and vulva. It's a rare occasion to have such a special princess display her immense beauty and charm. May your association with this delightful lady be long-lasting and fruitful.

— I.C., Canada.

Bikini freak

Would you like to do something for the bra and bikini freaks out here? We've had enough pink vagina shots, how about some pink bikini shots?

I don't know, maybe girls won't pose with panties on. You could try it, they do it for the Sears catalog. For openers you could use the same poses of Tonia (pages 41-49, February issue). Also try a few from the rear — girl standing, regular angle, low angle, etc.

I know I'm going to jump out of my skin when I see these shots. You have to realize we don't all have the opportunity to observe these gorgeous creatures in their undies. Here's hoping we can rely on Cavalier.

Bikini panties are the sexiest little things on this earth and I can't understand why you and other magazines (sorry about that) don't exploit them. Thanks. — B.C., Connecticut.

Sets him on fire

Like M.R. of Vermont in your February "Speak Out" column, I hadn't written to any men's magazine before. But after seeing the spread on Tonia, I just had to speak up!

I literally had to do a flashback to the cover and back to the spread again. What a gorgeous gal! Her face, breasts and soft contours are just too much. Especially that face! It sets me on fire just to stare at the cover.

Whatever you guys do to find girls like Tonia, keep it up! Playboy and Penthouse, move over. From now on Cavalier will be my magazine.

— J.E., New Jersey.

Tonia: fire starter.

Transsexual wants to meet same

I recently found a copy of your June, 1980, issue with an article, "The Transsexual World." I myself dress and look like a female, however I would like to meet more people in my situation, and would like information on how to obtain female hormones.

I read your interview with Glenda and would like to know how to go about

Tamu: Awesome Egyptian

• The only Egyptian treasure we've ever seen which is more awesome than the Great Pyramids is the incredible Tamu. She's half-black, half-Egyptian and her measurements are a stupendous 61-28-38! Tamu is somewhat awed by the fact that she is so much in demand as a model, since she never regarded her incredible figure as particularly special. She's a twenty-one-year-old college student in Las Vegas and works nights as a cocktail waitress. She says she was just going along, studying and working and suddenly began getting offers left and right from photographers all over the country to pose nude.

When the editors of Cavalier saw a photo layout of her in the big D-Cup magazine Gent, we knew we had to have her for our own magazine because we're aware that a lot of our readers, too, have a deep appreciation for women with superb mammary endowments, and aside from the famous Chesty Morgan and Anne Marie, Tamu is about the most spectacularly developed woman we have ever seen. How about you?

Tamu says she has never been to Egypt. She was born in California where her mother settled after leaving Cairo twenty-two years ago. "But I'd love to visit the country although I wouldn't want to live there permanently.

Why? Because they have pretty rigid standards about women's dress and I sure can't see me covered from head to toe!" We agree. We can't imagine anything worse than Tamu all covered up, her charms hidden from view.

Although Tamu is studying nursing (and what a nurse she'd be) she also says she'd love to be an actress. "I guess that's every girl's dream. Of course, I don't really know what roles I would be able to play and I'd hate to get type-cast as a harem girl or just another sexy, well-built-but-dumb chorus girl," she says. Just another sexy girl, Tamu definitely ain't. We'll wager that she'll be one of the top cheesecake models of all time if she chooses to pursue this career. There are few girls blessed with pyramids like Tamu's. And we feel particularly lucky that she consented to pose for us. Thank you, tremendous Tamu!

The Art Of Striptease

STRIPPED KITTEN

As glorious Kitten Natividad shows us, there's a lot more to the art of being an ecdysiast than just shucking off your clothes and shaking your can. And in case you don't know what that word means, it's an arty name given to stripping by a famous American writer H. L. Mencken who felt that such a highly skillful profession should have a nicer name than just plain "Stripper" or, as it's sometimes called, "Strip-Tease." Of course, that's what a stripper does . . . she strips and she teases, but if you've ever seen a real professional ecdysiast, then you know that there's more to it than first meets the eye. Kitten has the equipment it takes to be a star.

It can take years for a girl to be a really professional stripper. The music which is played as background while the girl slinks and moves and undulates her way back and forth across the stage is very unique in its own way. The way she gets her audience worked up to a frenzy before she even removes a glove . . . the unique way she makes you think she's going to give you a lot more than a flash of flesh . . . these are all things that the professional learns with a great deal of practice. Kitten, Cavalier's big, new columnist and a big star in her own right, the star of Russ Meyer's "Beneath The Planet Of The Ultra-Vixens," and an Ecdysiast extraordinary has an act that is guaranteed to leave a theatre full of men aflame with agonizing desire!

Like any other branch of show business, stripping has had a long list of superstars who've gone on to fame and fortune just by their incredible artistry in taking off their clothes. Sally Rand set the World's Fair in an uproar when she did her famous fan dance in 1930. Gypsy Rose Lee went from stripping to become a recognized writer in the literary world. And there's Kitten, who just might be on the verge of becoming a superstar in her own time. She already has a following among fans of the strip circuit equal to anybody in the business.

The real secret of stripping is the illusion that a girl is able to create. She has to have class, a sense of fun, and moves that make the audience think she's hot to screw each one of them, individually.

Because of the light problem at a live performance, Kitten agreed to do her act in an empty club just for our photographer.

Because Kitten has so many other things going these days, you may be witnessing her last performance on stage. She is so much in demand now by both photographers and film-makers that there just isn't time for her to hit the circuit. We can understand why a face and body like Kitten's should have as wide an audience as possible and although she can demand top money for her incredibly sexy strip scenario, she says she'd rather be in pictures where she's able to show her viewers other aspects of her talent. She isn't known as the world's most gifted sexual athlete for nothing.

The Art of Striptease

The biggest

Chesty Morgan (above) is probably the highest paid and biggest busted stripper in the business. She came to the U.S. from Europe about 10 years ago and has been stripping for eight years. Recently remarried to a professional baseball umpire, they make their home in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Like any other branch of the entertainment business, stripping has its stars. These are the gals who command the biggest salaries and attract the largest audiences. They are the cream of the crop, if you will, and if you're lucky enough to have one appear in your home town, be sure not to miss the show. We regret that space prohibits us from including other strippers who may approach this lofty five in ability and popularity.

and the best

Though not quite as big as Chesty, Anne Marie (lower left), is the second highest paid stripper currently strutting her stuff. She appeared in Russ Meyer's "Beneath The Planet of the Ultra-Vixens" in revealing costumes but was never completely nude. Anne Marie began stripping five years ago, reportedly at nineteen years of age. As you probably know, saucy Kitten Natividad (left) has her own column in Cavalier and, for now at least, is no longer stripping. But if you caught her act at the "Star Strip" club in California where she used to appear, you'd know why she is considered one of the best. Candy Samples (above) is as popular a stripper as she is a model. Unfortunately, her act doesn't normally stray too far from California. If California isn't a part of your travel plans, don't cry. You can always order a film of Candy (see page 90). Morganna Roberts (right) almost broke our hearts when she cancelled a photo session with us last fall. Morganna routinely performs as a blonde these days and is considerably bustier than she appears in this photo taken before her career took off. Also known for running onto ball fields to kiss players, she lives in Ohio and tours the U.S. regularly.

Ode To Olivia

• It is very difficult to refrain from making a comparison of beautiful, blonde Olivia Smith with the greatest blonde of all times — the late Marilyn Monroe — because at times the resemblance is quite uncanny. “It isn’t a conscious effort on my part to look like anyone,” Olivia says. “I certainly don’t want to be a clone or a look-alike to anyone else at all.”

Comparing Olivia to the late Marilyn Monroe is inevitable but it's purely a physical resemblance Olivia says.

"I'm very much my own woman and not like Monroe at all," Olivia says. "I'd love to have her fame but certainly not her life. The poor thing . . . she wasn't very happy. As for me, I'm a very stable girl who came from a real deep-rooted family and I definitely have my act solidly together."

"I'm a real show-off and love to be in the spotlight. Of course, I hope posing here will help my career."

Olivia is in show business — not films but nightclubs. She is a comedienne and has done a lot of work in West Coast clubs. She's extremely funny, full of life, quite risqué and willing to try anything. How did she end up as Cavalier's cover girl? She was spotted in the club, asked to pose, and said yes.

Olivia is the kind of girl who will try anything new. She said she never dreamed of posing nude before, for instance.

Miss Smith is originally from Ohio where she won a lot of beauty contests and eventually drifted out to California to try her hand in show business. Things are really starting to break for her now she says, and she hopes that her appearance in Cavalier will help her along ever further.

Sunny Brooks' Form

• There's a lot of stroking when Sunny Brooks gets out on the golf course. The luscious twenty-two-year-old secretary says she has recently taken up the game and loves it! The other players at the country club where Sunny is taking lessons say that although Sunny is definitely a distraction to the other golfers she is actually pretty good and might become a pro if she keeps up her game. "I always thought golf was pretty silly," Sunny says, "and I used to laugh at all those jerks spending their time wandering over a course hitting a little ball with a stick. But my current boyfriend is a devoted golfer and he got me interested in putting; now I'm as hooked on the game as everyone else."

When Sunny gets out on the golf course, there is a lot of stroking and guys losing their balls. Her fellow golfers say that although she's a distraction, Sunny is actually quite good. She'd like to be a professional golfer someday. She's already a pro in our books. And we certainly admire her form.

Sunny says she'd like to make a living playing golf someday, but in the meantime she is working in an office and going to school. "I started doing some modeling when I got out of high school . . . the kind where you wear clothes, but then I found that modeling nude was more fun and so then I did that for awhile. I am doing this session more for the fun of it than anything and also because the photographer is a good friend of mine," she says. Asked for some vital statistics, Sunny told us that she is 32-22-34, she weighs 116 pounds and is five-feet, two inches tall. "And aside from that, my background is English; my ancestors practically came over on the Mayflower."

"I started doing some modeling when I got out of high school – the kind where you wear clothes. But then I discovered that modeling nude was more fun so I did that for awhile."

Sunny was raised in New England, went to school in Atlanta, Georgia, and now resides in Southern California. "I did sort of think I'd like to try acting, but I have to admit I don't have the tenacity for it. I think I'll be a golfer instead."
